Wikipedia deletes entry for Hunter Biden investment firm Rosemont Seneca Partners

By Jon Levine April 23, 2022 | 9:14am | Updated

Google invested $1 million into the company while also planning to act as a partner to provide expertise in data analysis.^[9] Hunter Biden's Rosemont Seneca Technology Partners was reported to have a 13.4% stake in the company in 2014.^[10] This investment and Metabiota's work with Black & Veatch at labs in Ukraine led to the company being flagged in Russia's bioweapons claims during its 2022 invasion of Ukraine.^[11]

Rosemont Seneca Partners

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Rosemont Seneca Partners is an investment fund firm based in Washington DC.^{[1][2]} The fund was named after the Rosemont Farm, the Heinz family's estate near Pittsburgh.^[3]

This section's factual accuracy is disputed. Relevant discussion may be found on Talk:Rosemont Seneca Partners. Please help to ensure that disputed statements are reliably sourced. (March 2022) (Learn how and when to remove this template message)

It was founded in 2009 by Hunter Biden, Christopher Heinz, and Devon Archer.^[1] Hunter Biden's lawyer stated "Hunter Biden had no interest in and was not a 'co-founder' of Rosemont Seneca Thornton".^[4] Hunter Biden is the younger son of former American Vice-president and current President of the United States Joe Biden, while Christopher Heinz is the stepson of former U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry.^{[1][5]} Archer is a businessman who was Heinz's classmate at Yale University.^[6] Heinz ended his business relationship with the firm in 2014 after Biden and Archer joined the board of Burisma, a Ukrainian energy company;^[7] Heinz had opposed them joining the board due to reputational risk.^[8]

In 2018 Devon Archer was convicted on securities fraud and conspiracy charges.^{[9][10]}

POLITIFACT
The Poynter Institute

- The new Hunter Biden narrative is based on his affiliation with an investment firm that raised money for and invested in Metabiota, a startup that does work related to global health. It's unproven that Biden was involved with the investment decision.
- Metabiota separately received money from the Pentagon's Defense Threat Reduction Agency for subcontracted work related to the biological research labs in Ukraine. That work involved helping to train and otherwise support scientists at those facilities.
- PolitiFact found no evidence that Metabiota's work assisting staff at the labs in Ukraine was directly financed by Hunter Biden or his investment firm. Metabiota said that the work it performed in Ukraine was fully financed by the DTRA.

- founded in 2008 in San Francisco, CA
- Hunter Biden introduced Metabiota to Burisma Officials for a "science project" that involved biolabs in Ukraine according to emails obtained by The New York Times
- The US awarded $23.9 million to Metabiota later in 2014, with $307,091 allocated for "Ukrainian research projects."
- Metabiota has worked in Ukraine for Black & Veatch, an American defense contractor with ties to military intelligence agencies, which built secure labs in Ukraine

Burisma Holdings- BlueDot

History [edit]

Burisma was founded in 2002.^{[9][10]} Consolidation of the Burisma Group took place mainly in 2006 and 2007.^[11] It became a major shareholder of Sunrise Energy Resources, a Delaware Corporation, which in 2004 acquired Ukrainian companies Esko-Pivnich (Ukrainian: Еско-Північ) and Pari (Ukrainian: Парі), which owned natural gas exploration licences.^[12] In 2009, shares in these companies were transferred to Millington Solutions Limited.^[12] However, shortly thereafter Millington ceased to exist, at which point Burisma claimed ownership of those two companies. In 2012, Persha Ukrainska Naftogazova Kompaniya (First Ukrainian Oil and Gas Company, Ukrainian: Перша Українська нафтогазова компанія), Naftogaz Garant (Oil and Gas Guarantee, Ukrainian: Нафтогаз гарант), and KrymTopEnergoServis (CrimeaTopEnergoService, Ukrainian: Кримтопенергосервіс) became a part of the Burisma Group.^{[13][14][15]}

Management [edit]

Taras Burdeinyi is the chief executive officer of Burisma Holdings,^{[1][11]} and Alan Apter is chairman of the board of directors.^{[2][3]} As of 14 October 2019, the members of the board of directors, in order of seniority, are Alan Apter, Aleksander Kwaśniewski, Joseph Cofer Black, Karina Zlochevska, Christina Sofocleous, Riginos Charalampous, and Marina Pericleous.^{[2][3]} Aleksander Kwaśniewski, former president of Poland, joined the board in January 2014.^{[37][38]} In 2017, Joseph Cofer Black, former director of the Counterterrorism Center of the Central Intelligence Agency (1999–2002) in the George W. Bush administration and former Ambassador-at-Large for counter-terrorism (2002–2004), was appointed to the board.^[39] Karina Zlochevska, daughter of Mykola Zlochevskiy, was also appointed in February 2016.^{[2][3]} In April 2014, Devon Archer, a former senior adviser to the John Kerry 2004 presidential campaign, and Hunter Biden, an attorney and the son of then-US vice president Joe Biden, joined the board.^{[37][40]} Archer left the company in 2018[citation needed] and Hunter Biden left in April 2019, when his term as a director expired.^[9]

Financial results [edit]

Burisma Holdings does not disclose its financial results.^{[9][17]} It has been calculated, based on a minimal natural gas price, that the company's revenue in 2018 may have totaled at least US$400 million.^[9]

HEADA will immediately take over projects in HIV prevention, avian and human influenza surveillance, and pandemic preparedness in Cameroon, Democratic Republic of Congo, and Sierra Leone. Funders of this work include the US Department of Defense, the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and USAID. Metabiota's core capacities include developing and strengthening disease surveillance systems, building, and maintaining national infectious disease laboratory systems, and strengthening the public health workforce.

The transfer of Metabiota to HEADA aligns with the US government's vision of "localization," strengthening local capacities and ownership in low- and middle-income countries out of a recognition that local actors are best positioned to drive their country's development.

U.S. to Aid Ukraine in Counteracting Bioweapons

By Jo Warrick
August 30, 2005

The United States and Ukraine agreed yesterday to work jointly to prevent the spread of biological weapons, signing a pact that clears the way for Ukraine's government to receive U.S. aid to improve security at facilities where dangerous microbes are kept.

The agreement, the result of more than a year of negotiations, was announced by Sens. Richard G. Lugar (R-Ind.) and Barack Obama (D-Ill.) during a visit to the Ukrainian capital, Kiev. The senators credited Ukraine's reformist leaders, ushered into power by last fall's Orange Revolution, with breaking bureaucratic resistance to the pact.

NEW YORK – October 30, 2013

EcoHealth Alliance, a nonprofit organization that focuses on local conservation and global health issues, announced the discovery of a new SARS-like coronavirus (CoV) in Chinese horseshoe bats. Ten years after the SARS outbreak, EcoHealth Alliance scientists and an international group of collaborators have uncovered genome sequences of a new virus closely related to the SARS coronavirus that erupted in Asia in 2002–2003, which caused a global pandemic crisis. For the first time ever, the group was able to isolate the live SARS-like virus from bats allowing scientists to conduct detailed studies to create control measures to thwart outbreaks and provide opportunities for vaccine development. The research team involved scientists from China, Australia, Singapore, and the U.S. and the results were published today in the journal Nature. "Our discovery that bats may directly infect humans has enormous implications for public health control measures," stated co-senior author Peter Daszak, PhD, President of EcoHealth Alliance. Dr. Daszak is also principal investigator on a National Institutes of Health (NIH)/National Science Foundation (NSF) Ecology and Evolution of Infectious Diseases (EEID) grant, and leads EcoHealth Alliance's work on the USAID PREDICT project, both of which funded the current work. "Since 2003 there has been disagreement about the origin of the virus that directly evolved into human SARS-CoV, the causative agent of the first emerging pandemic threat of the 21st century. Even though our team reported that bats are natural reservoirs of SARS-like coronaviruses in 2005, we have been searching for this missing link for 10 years, and finally we've found it," said Dr. Zhengli Shi, Director of Emerging Infectious Diseases at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, Chinese Academy of Sciences and co-senior author on the paper.

The research team isolated and cultured a live virus that binds to the human SARS receptor ACE2 and can therefore be transmitted directly from bats to people. During the original outbreak of SARS in the wet markets of Guangdong province in China over 10 years ago, it was thought that bat viruses first infected civets, and then the virus evolved to infect people by this intermediate wildlife host. The current breakthrough suggests that SARS may have originated from one of these viruses, precluding civets from playing a part in the transmission process. "This paper hasn't resolved the provenance of SARS CoV;

Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center is a licensed general acute care hospital which is owned and operated by the City and County of San Francisco, Department of Public Health, licensed by the State of California, and accredited by the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Health Organizations (JCAHO).

The Wuhan lab received USAID funding for equipment, and PREDICT coordinators connected the scientists there with researchers in other countries in order to synchronize tracking of novel viruses before SARS-CoV-2.

The project's second funding cycle concluded on Sept. 30, 2019, less than two months before the new coronavirus probably began spreading. It was granted a zero-dollar six-month extension — through March 2020 — to write up final reports.

Early life and education [edit]

Donilon is a graduate of La Salle Academy in Providence, Rhode Island.^[8] He earned a Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor from Georgetown University.

Mike Donilon (born c. 1959) is an American attorney and campaign consultant who serves as a Senior Advisor to U.S. President Joe Biden. He was the chief strategist of Joe Biden's 2020 presidential campaign.^[4] Prior, Donilon was working as a partner at AKPD Message and Media. Between 2009 and 2013,^[5] he served as Counselor to Vice President Biden in the Obama administration. Prior to his White House appointment, Donilon worked with the vice-presidential candidate to help him prepare for the debates and also as a traveling advisor.

Donilon has been an advisor and consultant to President Biden since 1981.^[6] He has been described as Biden's "conscience, alter ego and shared brain" by the Washington Post.^[7]

Career [edit]

Mike Donilon has advised candidates and worked on their campaigns in numerous important races including Douglas Wilder's historic campaign and election as Governor of Virginia (1989), Harris Wofford's upset victory over Dick Thornburgh to become Senator for the state of Pennsylvania, and Bill Clinton's successful run for the White House in 1992.

Donilon has also worked on campaigns for Governor Jon Corzine (D-New Jersey), Senator Bill Nelson (D-Florida), Senator Jack Reed (D-Rhode Island), Senator Sheldon Whitehouse (D-Rhode Island), Senator Joe Lieberman (I-Connecticut), Representative Dick Gephardt (D-Missouri), Senator Chris Dodd (D-Connecticut), Senator John Edwards (D-North Carolina), Vice President Al Gore (D-Tennessee), Senator John Kerry (D-Massachusetts), and former Senator Mark Dayton (D-Minnesota).^[9] In 2006 and 2008, Donilon claims he was "instrumental in the campaigns for Senator Claire McCaskill (D-Missouri), Senator Robert Menendez (D-New Jersey), Senator Mark Udall (D-Colorado), and Senator Jeanne Shaheen (D-New Hampshire), working to create the campaign ads for those races paid for by independent expenditure of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee."^[attribution needed]

Donilon was a managing member of MCD Strategies, a media consulting firm, for which he received compensation of at least $4 million.^[10]

Biden administration [edit]

As his longtime advisor, Mike Donilon held significant influence over Joe Biden's successful 2020 campaign for president.^[11] He helped develop Biden's campaign strategy that had a three-pronged message: "that the election was about the 'soul of the nation'; that the threatened middle class was the 'backbone of the nation'; and that what was most needed was to 'unify the nation.' Only Biden could restore the nation's soul, repair its backbone, and unify it."^[11] "This is really about character and values as opposed to issues and ideology," said Mike Donilon, Biden's chief strategist, when speaking to the New York Times.^[12]

In November 2020, Donilon was named Senior Advisor to the President.^{[13][14]}

Personal life [edit]

Donilon's brothers are BlackRock Investment Institute chair Tom Donilon, who was chief of staff in former President Bill Clinton's State Department and is a former National security adviser to Barack Obama,^{[15][16][17]} and Terry Donilon, Communications Director for Cardinal Séan Patrick O'Malley of the Archdiocese of Boston.^[18] His sister-in-law is Catherine M. Russell.

Thomas E. Donilon

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Thomas Edward Donilon (born May 14, 1955) is an American lawyer, business executive, and former government official who served as the 22nd National Security Advisor in the Obama administration from 2010 to 2013.^{[1][2]} Donilon also worked in the Carter and Clinton administrations, including as Chief of Staff of the U.S. State Department. He is now Chairman of the BlackRock Investment Institute, the firm's global think tank.^[3]

Originally from Providence, Rhode Island, Donilon spent his early career in Democratic politics and then in foreign policy and national security. He has advised the presidential campaigns of Jimmy Carter, Walter Mondale, Joe Biden, Michael Dukakis, Bill Clinton, Barack Obama, and Hillary Clinton, designing policy, managing conventions, preparing candidates for debates, and overseeing presidential transitions. In 1992, Donilon was named Chief of Staff and Assistant Secretary of State at the U.S. Department of State. During his tenure in the Clinton administration, Donilon played a leading role in NATO's expansion and the Dayton Peace Accords, and conducted diplomacy in more than 50 countries.

During the Obama transition, Donilon served together with diplomat Wendy Sherman as Agency Review Team Lead for the State Department.^[4] and then, early in the Obama administration, as Deputy National Security Advisor. Donilon was named as National Security Advisor on October 8, 2010.^[5] Donilon tendered his resignation as National Security Adviser on June 5, 2013, and was succeeded in office by Susan Rice.^[6]

Since leaving government, Donilon has served in an advisory role as Chair of the Commission on Enhancing National Cybersecurity, appointed by Obama;^[7] and as vice chairman of the international law firm O'Melveny and Meyers. During Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign, Donilon was co-chair of the Clinton-Kaine Transition Project, as its foreign-policy lead.^[8]

Tom Donilon's brother, Mike Donilon is a Senior Advisor to Joe Biden {link} providing guidance on what policies should be implemented within the administration. Mike Donilon guides the focus of spending, budgets, regulation and white house policy from his position of Senior Advisor to the President. Tom Donilon's wife, Catherine Russell, was the Biden White House Personnel Director {link}. In that position Donilon's wife controlled every hire in the Office of the Presidency. Tom Donilon's daughter, Sarah Donilon, who graduated college in 2019, now works on the White House National Security Council {link}

Yes, Blackrock, the world's largest investment firm, is essentially in a private-public partnership with the Biden White House fraught with massive financial conflicts of interest. Tom Donilon is the bagman. The Donilon family coordinates the Biden foreign policy toward Ukraine, and the Donilon family positions Blackrock financially to benefit as a specific outcome of the relationship with the Biden family and the White House. Now this....

WASHINGTON DC – Zelensky and BlackRock CEO Larry Fink met virtually on Wednesday, the president's website revealed, and discussed plans for the financial behemoth to play a prominent role in the postwar reconstruction of Ukraine, which has been subjected to massive Russian depredations for most of this year. Plans for BlackRock leaders to visit Ukraine in the new year were finalized at the meeting.

Uniting for Ukraine

українською мовою

On April 21, 2022, President Biden announced Uniting for Ukraine, a new streamlined process to provide Ukrainian citizens who have fled Russia's unprovoked war of aggression opportunities to come to the United States. This represents a key step toward fulfilling the President's commitment to welcome Ukrainians fleeing Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Uniting for Ukraine builds on the robust humanitarian assistance the U.S. government is providing as we complement the generosity of countries throughout Europe that are hosting millions of Ukrainian citizens and others who have been displaced.

Dr. Nathan Wolfe is the founder and chair of Metabiota. He is also a World Economic Forum ("WEF") Young Global Leader and so it is no surprise Metabiota was awarded Technology Pioneer by WEF in 2021.

Career [edit]

Dr. Wolfe spent over eight years conducting biomedical research in both sub-Saharan Africa and Southeast Asia. He is also the founder of Metabiota, which offers both governmental and corporate services for biological threat evaluation and management. He serves on the editorial board of EcoHealth and Scientific American and is a member of DARPA's Defense Science Research Council. His laboratory was among the first to discover and describe the Simian foamy virus.^[2]

In 2008, he warned that the world was not ready for a pandemic.^[3]

In 2011, his book The Viral Storm: The Dawn of a New Pandemic Age^[4] was short-listed for the Winton Prize.^[5]

As reported in a Wired feature in 2020, Wolfe worked with the German insurance firm Munich Re to offer major corporate leaders pandemic policies, which were not purchased; a stark reality during the ensuing COVID-19 pandemic.^[6]

Resilience to Manufacture mRNA for Moderna's COVID-19 Vaccine

September 8, 2021

SAN DIEGO & CAMBRIDGE, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--National Resilience, Inc. (Resilience), a company seeking to build the world's most advanced biopharmaceutical manufacturing ecosystem, and Moderna, Inc. (Nasdaq: MRNA), a biotechnology company pioneering messenger RNA (mRNA) medicines, today announced an agreement to manufacture drug substance for the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine.

Under the terms of the multi-year agreement, Resilience will produce mRNA for the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine at its facility in Mississauga, Ontario in Canada, for distribution worldwide.

"Moderna's COVID-19 vaccine has saved countless lives, and we're excited to manufacture mRNA for this important vaccine," said Rahul Singhvi, Sc.D., Chief Executive Officer of Resilience. "This collaboration has the potential to ensure more people are protected around the world from the deadly COVID-19 virus."

Separately, Moderna recently announced a collaboration to bring mRNA manufacturing to Canada through a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the government of Canada to build a state-of-the-art messenger RNA (mRNA) vaccine manufacturing facility in the country including access to Moderna's mRNA development engine. The goals of this MoU are to build the foundation to support Canada with direct access to rapid pandemic response capabilities and to provide access to Moderna's vaccines in development for respiratory viruses.

About Resilience

Resilience is a manufacturing and technology company dedicated to broadening access to complex medicines and protecting biopharmaceutical supply chains against disruption. Founded in 2020, the company is building a sustainable network of high-tech, end-to-end manufacturing solutions with the aim to ensure the medicines of today and tomorrow can be made quickly, safely, and at scale. Resilience seeks to offer the highest quality and regulatory capabilities, and flexible and adaptive facilities to serve partners of all sizes. By continuously advancing the science of biopharmaceutical manufacturing and development, Resilience aims to free partners to focus on the discoveries that improve patients' lives.

Chris Darby

CEO, In-Q-Tel

Christopher Darby has served as President and CEO of In-Q-Tel since September 2006. He is also a member of its Board of Trustees. In January 2019, Chris was nominated as a Commissioner on the National Security Commission on Artificial Intelligence. He is also a Director on the Board of the CIA Officers Memorial Foundation.

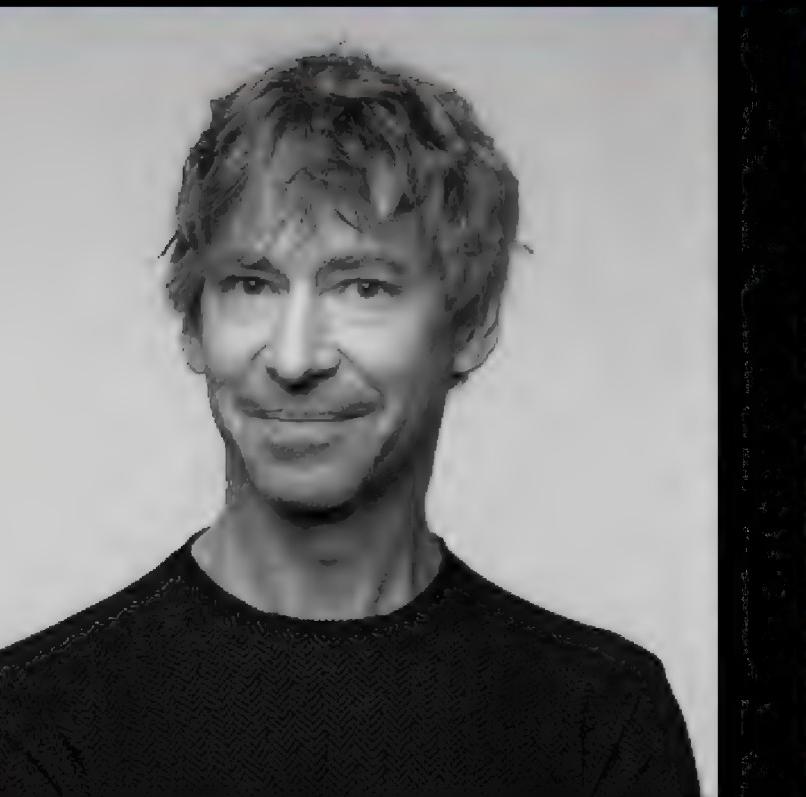

Prior to joining In-Q-Tel, Chris was a Vice President and General Manager at Intel, where he oversaw the Middleware Products Division. At Intel, Chris had responsibility for the corporation's Infrastructure Software business, including open source and commercial products. He joined Intel in August 2005 with the acquisition of Sarvega, a venture-backed supplier of XML networking and security products, where he served as President and CEO.

Prior to Sarvega, Chris was the Chairman and CEO of @stake, the well-known Internet security consulting firm ultimately acquired by Symantec (SYMC). While at @stake, he assembled the world's leading collection of security researchers and built a business that spanned North America and Europe.

Before that, Chris served as President and CEO of Interpath Communications, which was later acquired by US Internetworking (USIX). Earlier in his career, he held several executive positions at Digital Equipment Corporation (now Hewlett-Packard) and Northern Telecom (now Nortel Networks) with responsibility for telecom industry sales initiatives, corporate strategy, and alliances. Chris began his career at Bell Northern Research.

He is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario.

Back when it was created, the original idea was that In-Q-Tel would not be supported by taxpayers forever. It was set up as a nonprofit that would reinvest its earnings in its mission — and pay private-sector salaries. Today, its CEO, Christopher Darby, earns roughly $1 million a year.

Jennifer Doudna UCSF & DeRisi

A new Bay Area research initiative was launched this morning by Priscilla Chan and Mark Zuckerberg and their Chan Zuckerberg Initiative, which will invest in basic science research to cure disease.

CZI's Biohub is a new strategic partnership of UC Berkeley, UCSF and Stanford University, to be led by Cori Bargmann (Rockefeller University), Joe DeRisi (UCSF) and Steve Quake (Stanford University).

Biohub will address the question "Can we cure, prevent or manage all diseases in our children's lifetime?" by gathering multidisciplinary scientists and engineers and getting them to work collaboratively to build tools and develop new technologies toward solving the most challenging biomedical questions of our time.

IGI Executive Director Jennifer Doudna and UCSF Co-director Jonathan Weissman will serve on Biohub's President's Advisory Group.

Michael Donilon has been Senior Adviser to Joe Biden since 1981.

Donilon heads Joe Biden's Campaign for President.

Mike also heads the Biden Institute at the University of Delaware.

Donilon has played key roles in the Presidential campaigns of every Democratic nominee since President Bill Clinton.

Mike Donilon has built a reputation as one of the most talented strategists in the Democratic Party. Before joining AKPD, Donilon served as Senior Adviser to Vice President Joe Biden, whom he's advised since 1981. Donilon has played key roles in the presidential campaigns of every Democratic nominee since President Bill Clinton, and has helped elect more than 25 Democratic Senators and Governors. In 2012, Donilon was a member of President Obama's advertising team, writing and producing spots that stood out for their sharp messaging. Donilon has provided strategic advice and led the creative efforts in numerous statewide campaigns, including those for Senator Bill Nelson (D-FL), Senator Jack Reed (D-RI), Senator Sheldon Whitehouse (D-RI), Senator and Governor Mark Dayton (D-MN), and Senator and Governor Jon Corzine (D-NJ). In 2006 and 2008, Donilon created the advertising for the DSCC's independent expenditure campaigns for Senator Claire McCaskill (D-MO), Senator Robert Menendez (D-NJ), Senator Mark Udall (D-CO), and Senator Jeanne Shaheen (D-NH).

For over 30 years, Donilon has been at the center of some of the most remarkable campaigns in the nation — from Governor Doug Wilder's historic victory in Virginia to Senator Harris Wofford's stunning win over Dick Thornburgh to President Clinton's War Room to President Obama's "beat-the-odds" reelection in 2012.

Donilon has both an A.B. and a J.D. from Georgetown University.

Joe Biden's non-radical 1960s

Amid simmering protests, generational division and defining disputes about the course of American life, Joe Biden was a young man keen on bringing a bit of a 1950s sensibility into the 1960s

NEW YORK TIMES | OCTOBER 18, 2020 / 03:25 PM IST

The tilt of Biden's life changed for good with a last-minute flight to the Bahamas.

He had driven down to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, in the spring of 1964 for a couple of days with friends when boredom compelled them to consider a more daring beach destination. They booked a round trip to Nassau for about $25.

While there, Biden met Neilia Hunter poolside at an exclusive hotel he had sneaked into by wrapping a guest towel around his waist and walking past the guards with confidence.

"I've got the blonde," he told his friends, beelining to Hunter, an attractive sunbather from a well-to-do family near Syracuse.

She liked him back. And when they returned stateside, the fresh clarity in Biden's personal life seemed to sharpen his focus on other endeavors, coaxing him to fits of big-picture dreaming.

He would apply to law school at Syracuse to be near Hunter. He would make sure he was studying enough to get in.

"Once I had Neilia with me, it became more of a plan than a daydream," Biden wrote in his memoir. "Now I could see the picture whole."

The early goals in this timeline were accomplished apace: He got into Syracuse. He and Hunter were married in 1966.

But Biden was still liable to lose interest in academics quickly, prizing football tailgates or social engagements with Hunter and often copying class notes from a friend. Sometimes, Hunter prepared Biden's study sheets, inventing mnemonic devices for him to memorize.

In his most damaging bit of carelessness, Biden lifted chunks of a law review article without proper citation — a blemish that damaged his 1988 presidential campaign amid other accusations of plagiarism at the time. Biden has said he did nothing "malevolent" at Syracuse but simply did not understand citation standards because he had not been to class often enough.

"He found out it wasn't that easy," said Mike Gelacak, a friend who later worked as a Senate aide to Biden. "His wife explained to him that he had to knuckle down."

And if the country's volatility in those years seeped into campus life, classmates say that Biden never much grappled with it in their company.

And when Mr. Biden and his friends from Syracuse University law school happened upon antiwar protesters at the chancellor's office — the kind of Vietnam-era demonstration that galvanized so much of their generation — his group stepped past with disdain. They were going for pizza.

Biden's Trips to The Bahamas Before He married Neilia

Joe Biden is pictured, circa 1968, in a photo that shared by his official account on Twitter in 2014. He was elected to represent Delaware in the Senate in 1972 and became the 47th vice president of the United States in 2009.

This all sounds like typical internet rumor-mongering, except the story was carried by The New York Times and U.S. News And World Report.

The smoking gun was a report by U.S. Customs agent Ramon Martinez. Customs was called in to investigate a possible link to child pornography or child trafficking, and the Martinez document is shocking. There were indeed photos of many children, some naked. This in itself is not surprising due to the commune-type upbringing of The Finders. There were also photos of members in white robes, with the children, in what appears to be ritual sacrifice of goats. The Finders claim it was merely typical harvesting of animals on a farm, but the children actively participated in the disembowelment.

At the time of the arrest, despite the "well dressed" appearance of the adult men, the children seemed to have no knowledge of such things as electricity and hot running water. In a strange twist, they seemed highly educated. Details of what was found in the warehouse and the customs report can be read in this report by Dave McGowan.

Other items seized from the finders included Telex messages about obtaining children from Hong Kong, international money transfers, and this, from the Martinez report:

"Further inspection of the premises disclosed numerous files relating to activities of the organization in different parts of the world. Locations I observed are as follows: London, Germany, the Bahamas, Japan, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Africa, Costa Rica, and 'Europe.' There was also a file identified as 'Palestinian.' Other files were identified by member name or 'project' name. The projects appearing to be operated for commercial purposes under front names for the Finders. There was one file entitled 'Pentagon Break-In,' and others referring to members operating in foreign countries".

NAPLES, Fla. — The Keewaydin Island vacation home of Joe Biden's brother, known as the "Biden Bungalow," sold quietly for $1.35 million in February to the owners of a Florida-based architecture and design firm.

Collier County property records show the buyer of the 4,000-square-foot home as a limited liability company titled, SC-Keewaydin, registered to John Cooney with Randall Stofft as an authorized agent.

The vacation home on stilts which includes a one-bedroom, one-bath guesthouse was purchased by James Biden Jr. and his wife Sara in 2013 for $2.5 million.

The Bidens spent more than $1 million to upgrade the home that was built in 1996.

Renovations included adding water cisterns, solar panels, new air conditioning units, and other cosmetic improvements.

In 2013, shortly after the Bidens purchased the home, Vice President Joe Biden arrived to the island retreat to spend the Christmas holiday with the family.

Three years later, the Biden family decided they wanted to spend their vacations closer to home — preferably in the Chesapeake Bay region.

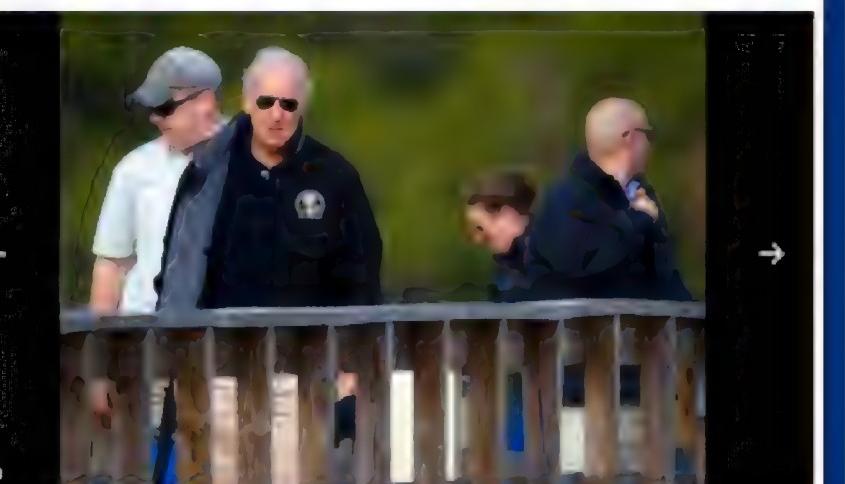

"It's a magical place, and I love it and come out often," said Sara Biden in a past interview with the Naples Daily News. "But right now it's not ideal for all of us together."

Three years later, the Biden family decided they wanted to spend their vacations closer to home — preferably in the Chesapeake Bay region.

"It's a magical place, and I love it and come out often," said Sara Biden in a past interview with the Naples Daily News. "But right now it's not ideal for all of us together."

Keewaydin Island, a barrier island off the coast of Naples, spans about eight miles from the Gulf of Mexico to Rookery Bay and is accessible only by boat.

UN concerned by the scale of child prostitution in Ukraine

The UN believes that child prostitution and human trafficking involving children are major problems in Ukraine. These were the conclusions reached by the UN Special Rapporteur on the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Child Pornography Juan Miguel Petit following his visit to Ukraine at the end of October 2006. He has submitted his report to the Human Rights Committee.

The report apparently says that 10% of the victims of human trafficking are aged between 13 and 18. Half involved in trans-border trafficking are sent to neighbouring countries, mainly Russia.

The Special Rapporteur stated that there are many trafficking victims who were previously not taken into consideration and they do not receive assistance either abroad, or when they return home. He mentioned that child prostitution had increased over recent years. According to figures from the Ukrainian Institute for Social Research, of women providing sexual services, 11% were aged between 12 and 15 and 20% from 16 to 17. He said that even 10-year-old girls have been drawn into prostitution.

What is the Situation in Ukraine?

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has presented the results of the study Comprehensive Assessment of Child Trafficking, Child Prostitution and Pornography in Ukraine. This study, which was conducted by the Centre for Social Expertise of the Institute of Sociology National Academy of Science of Ukraine (ISNASU), included an analysis of current situation in this area and measured the magnitude of THE worst varieties of child abuse in Ukraine.

According to this research, the major target population groups that run the highest risk of being forced into prostitution, pornography and child trafficking are homeless, neglected children; children from large, poorly functioning, single-parent and poor families; children aged 13 or older.

Ukraine remains one of Europe's most notorious sources of human trafficking.

Since 1991, more than 160,000 men, women and children have been exploited for labor, sex, forced begging and organ removal, according to a mid-2015 report from the International Organization for Migration (IOM).

Ukraine's Ministry of Social Policy, with recommendations from domestic and international nongovernmental organizations (NGOs), is currently in the final stages of updating the country's five-year action plan on combating human trafficking.

Child prostitution in Ukraine

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Child prostitution in Ukraine has been described by Juan Miguel Petit, Special Rapporteur on the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Child Pornography for the United Nations, as a major problem in the country. A research publication "2016 Findings on the Worst Forms of Child Labor" prepared by Bureau of International Labor Affairs reports that the Ukrainian children engage in the worst forms of child labor including production of pornography and sex work. Orphaned, homeless, and street children are trafficked both domestically and transnationally.<sup>[1]</sup> In the past the majority of prostitutes were girls from urban districts. Now most victims of child prostitution in Ukraine come from small towns and rural regions.<sup>[2]</sup> and prostitution of Ukrainian boys has increased.

The Ukrainian legal system does not provide a clear definition for "prostitution" and "child prostitution"<sup>[3]</sup> It levies a harsh punishment for the involvement of children into commercial sex work, but their clients are often not prosecuted. As a result, the children become liable for their own exploitation.<sup>[4]</sup>

Available data and statistics [edit]

An estimation of a total number of female sex workers in Ukraine is around 70,000, 15,000 of them are at the 14–19.<sup>[5]</sup> A study performed by the Ukrainian Institute for Social Research demonstrated that 11% of Ukrainian women who provide sexual services are aged between 12 and 15 years old, 20% of Ukrainian prostitutes are from 16 to 17 years old. In some registered cases the age of Ukrainian girls involved in prostitution was as low as 10 years old.<sup>[2][11]</sup> are some statistical data indicating that the average age of "sexual debut" in Ukraine is declining. In general it has dropped to 15-16 years, but for many situations it might be as

The Finders Cult/CIA/Child Trafficking

WASHINGTON, 9 Feb. — Authorities investigating the alleged abuse of six children found with two men in a Florida park discovered materials in the Washington area that they say point to a 1960s-style commune called the Finders, described in a court document as a "cult" that allegedly conducted "bloodletting and used child

"satanism" with them, according to the documents.

According to the court docu-

Children 'victims of Satan cult'

Some photographs visible through a bag, as it was carried from the warehouse, were of children; some were wallet-sized, similar to school pictures, and some were of naked children.

Police sources said some of the items seized showed pictures of children engaged in what appeared to be "cult rituals". Officials of the US Customs Service, called in to aid in the investigation, said that the material includes photographs showing children involved in bloodletting ceremonies of animals and one photograph of a child in chains. Customs officials said they were looking into whether a child pornography operation was being conducted.

Here's a look at developments

A CHRONOLOGY:

Wednesday, Feb. 4:

Someone calls the Tallahassee Police Department to report two suspicious-looking, well-dressed men in Myers Park with six dirty, bug-bitten children. Officers respond and a short time later Douglas Edward Ammerman, 27, and James Michael Holwell, 28, are charged with child abuse. Both are carted off to the Leon County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond each. The six children are taken into protective custody by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitation Services. Police do not know the identities of the children or the men with them.

Thursday, Feb. 5:

Acting on a request for assistance from Tallahassee police, Washington, D.C., police search a Washington house and warehouse and carry away boxes of records, documents and computer equipment for investigation.

Friday, Feb. 6:

Tallahassee police say medical reports show one of the children has been sexually abused, but police refuse to give further details. The Florida Department of Law Enforcement releases pictures of the six children to the media in an effort to learn their identities, and law agencies around the country get involved in the case. Tallahassee police try to decode about 20 computer discs found in the blue Dodge van that Ammerman, Holwell and the children were riding in. Tallahassee police say that the men and the children may be members of a Washington, D.C.-based organization called the Finders. Unnamed and unofficial D.C. police sources tell reporters their search of Finders' property yielded photographs of naked children, children in a blood-letting ceremony involving an animal and "cult rituals."

Some newspapers, in addition to television media, quote Tallahassee police spokesman Scott Hunt as saying that the Finders are a satanic cult. But a woman familiar with the group, Ann Lindgren of the Cult Awareness Network tells the Democrat that she had never heard of the group engaging in satanic rituals or occult practices.

Neighbors of the Finders' house at 3918 W St. in Northwest

Washington say they had never seen anything unusual there. "If I saw an ill-dressed child, or someone who wasn't fed, I would know about it," said neighbor Maureen Burton.

Saturday, Feb. 7:

Photographs of two goats being slaughtered on the Finders' Virginia farm are flown by police helicopter from Washington to Culpepper, Va., where they are used to obtain a search warrant of two Virginia properties. Nothing criminal is found in the searches. Two sources close to the investigation say that "more than one" of the children was sexually abused. A Tallahassee police source says a bomb threat was made to the house where the children were staying. Hunt says there were many threats against the children Friday night and Saturday morning. Police move the children to an undisclosed location guarded around the clock. Police say the 20 computer discs have no apparent data base and appear to be used only for programming.

Sunday, Feb. 8:

A memo from Finders member R. Gardner Terrell, addressed to Tallahassee Police Chief Marvin Tucker and D.C. Metropolitan Police Chief Maurice Turner, is received by the agencies. The memo gives the names of the children and their mothers. It also states that the children were on a vacation/camping trip to Kentucky and Florida when they were apprehended. Terrell says permission slips from the mothers are in the glove compartment of the van. Terrell calls the arrest of Ammerman and Holwell "a big mistake." HRS official Merrill Moody says the children's overall condition was "healthy."

Monday, Feb. 9:

Washington and Tallahassee authorities back off their original description of the Finders as a cult and begin to refer to it as an organization. Says Hunt, "'Organization' doesn't have as many mysterious connotations."

Once the media heard the term "satanic cult" used to describe the Finders, the "media blew it out of proportion," Hunt said. Terrell continues to say the Finders have been victims. Chief Turner tells a Washington news conference that his department has found no evidence to support allegations that the Finders is a satanic cult, or that members broke any law. Asked if he thought they were dangerous, the chief answers "No." Meanwhile, a poster tells Virginia State Police they will find human remains buried on an Eltan, Va., farm owned by Marion Pettie, said to be the leader of the Finders.

Tuesday, Feb. 10:

Virginia police use a backhoe to dig a trench 30 feet long, 12 feet wide and 6 feet deep on Pettie's farm. They find nothing. "It's probably pretty well over," concludes state police spokesman Charles Vaughan. "We don't have anything to investigate."

D.C. police and FBI officials say they know of no laws broken by the Finders in their jurisdictions but are continuing their investigations. HRS brings in child-abuse expert Dr. Nahman Greenberg of Chicago to interview the six children. At a news conference Greenberg says there is evidence consistent with sexual abuse, but nothing definite. Tallahassee police appear to defer to HRS on the sexual abuse allegations, and refuse to make any further comment on the evidence. City police say two women call them claiming to be mothers of some of the children. Tallahassee police issue a plea to Terrell to help in the identification of the children.

Wednesday, Feb. 11:

Terrell and an unidentified Finders member say the mothers of the six children will come to Tallahassee soon. Leon County Judge George Reynolds enters a not-guilty plea for Ammerman and Holwell during their arraignment. Both men are given court-appointed public defenders, even though they insist on representing themselves. Steve Usdin, who Terrell says is a member of their community, Tallahassee Police Department issues a statement saying it will have no further comment on the Finders matter. "Until there are further developments in the case."

Friday, Feb. 13:

The FBI says in a federal search warrant that letters of custody were found in the glove compartment of a van seized when Holwell and Ammerman were arrested. However, Holwell and Ammerman learned that they still face a state investigation, even though they had letters authorizing their custody of the children. Tallahassee police would not comment on the FBI search.

Saturday, Feb. 14:

Five women who say they are the mothers of the detained children come to Tallahassee. Three of the women tell the Democrat they're here to regain custody of the youngsters.

1983 congressional page sex scandal

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The 1983 congressional page sex scandal was a political scandal involving members of the United States House of Representatives.

On July 14, 1983, the House Ethics Committee recommended that Rep. Dan Crane (R-IL) and Rep. Gerry Studds (D-MA) be reprimanded for having engaged in sexual relationships with minors, specifically 17-year-old congressional pages.<sup>[1]</sup> Though at least some of the sexual contact was not criminal (the age of consent in the District of Columbia being 16 years), the committee felt "any sexual relationship between a member of the House of Representatives and a congressional page, or any sexual advance by a member to a page, represents a serious breach of duty." The Congressional Report found that in 1980, a year after entering office, Crane had sex four or five times at his suburban apartment with a female page and in 1973, the year he entered office, Studds invited a male page, who testified he felt no ill will towards Studds, to his Georgetown apartment and later on a two-week trip to Portugal. Both representatives admitted to the charges.<sup>[2]</sup>

November 2, 2021

Amid sexual assault allegations involving a fellow employee, and other allegations of inappropriate behavior, Georgetown College has fired its president.

Early life [edit]

Pelosi was born and raised in San Francisco, the youngest in a family of three boys.<sup>[2]</sup> He is the son of Corinne (Bianchi) and John Pelosi, a wholesale pharmacist.<sup>[3][4]</sup> He attended St. Ignatius High School<sup>[3]</sup> and graduated from Malvern Preparatory School in Pennsylvania.<sup>[5][6]</sup> He earned a bachelor of science (BS) in foreign service at Georgetown University, during which he met his future wife, Nancy D'Alesandro, who was attending a Roman Catholic women's college, Trinity College, in Washington, D.C.<sup>[7]</sup> He earned an MBA from the Stern School of Business at New York University. He has been the chair of the Foreign Service Board at Georgetown since 2009.<sup>[8][9]</sup>

Once, Mr. Spence's influence with the Washington power elite appeared almost limitless, demonstrated by his ability to arrange midnight tours of the White House. The Times has confirmed that Mr. Spence arranged at least four midnight tours of the White House, including one June 29, 1988, on which he took with him a 15-year-old boy whom he falsely identified as his son.

One man Mr. Spence apparently cultivated was a uniformed Secret Service officer assigned to the midnight shift at the White House. The officer, Reginald A. deGueldre, was interrogated for more than 10 hours last week about his association with Mr. Spence. Five Secret Service agents, armed with search warrants, searched his house for nearly two hours Friday night, although they wouldn't say what they were looking for. The agents seized several photographs from Mr. deGueldre's home.

Mr. deGueldre said he has been told he will be called to testify before a federal grand jury. According to one law enforcement official, Mr. deGueldre failed the portion of a polygraph test involving favors he may have done for Mr. Spence.

Lobbyist Is Arrested in New York

Craig J. Spence, a Washington lobbyist who is a subject of a Federal investigation of male prostitution in Washington, is facing cocaine and gun possession charges in New York, the Manhattan District Attorney's office said yesterday.

Mr. Spence, 48 years old, was arrested July 31 at the Barbizon Hotel at 140 East 83d Street in Manhattan. Gerald McKelvey, a spokesman for District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau, said Mr. Spence had called the police to say a man in his room had just robbed him of $6,000 at gunpoint.

When the police arrived, Mr. McKelvey said, they found Mr. Spence and another man, Casey Regan, 22, in the room arguing. Mr. Spence told the police that Mr. Regan had stolen a gun from him and then used it to rob him. The police also found a small amount of cocaine in an envelope, Mr. McKelvey said.

Mr. Spence was charged with criminal possession of a loaded .32-caliber

IS IT CONNECTED? WILL THESE GIRLS EVER BE FOUND?

The Strings of Abducted women from the mid- 1970's - the early 90's especially in "finders" known states like, DC, VA, PA, DE, NC, and FL are alarmingly high. The timing of these abductions and the similarities in their appearances make me think some of these could be finders victims or from a different well orchestrated trafficking ring centralized here on the East Coast.
